

Narcissus

A young, vain man who fell in love with his own reflection when he saw it in the water. Aphrodite turned him into a white and yellow flower, the narcissus or daffodil. He still sits by the edge of the pond, admiring himself.